Gering & López Gallery's inaugural show unites left and right brain with three distinct light sculptures, as artist and engineer Leo Villareal showcases his custom-designed software. Diamond Sea dazzles as 2,400 points of light ripple, flicker, and flow across a 150-square-foot wall of mirrored steel. Overhead hangs Hive, a suspended plane of orange LEDs whose blinking undulations simultaneously invoke both order and chaos. Finally, attempt to focus on Field, a monumental wall of diffuse colored light. Red, green, and blue patches bleed and blend together, pulsing and retreating at a hypnotic pace. It's as challenging to behold as it is to tear away from. (KW)
